

To our CAF Community,

March 16, 2020

The Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic is rapidly changing our daily lives across the country. The team at Challenged Athletes Foundation (CAF) remains focused on making the best decisions for our athletes, supporters, sponsors, staff and volunteers. It is an unprecedented time and our hearts go out to all those impacted.

As an organization we are involved with events and activities around the country and each will be evaluated based on recommendations from local public health organizations and governmental authorities.

We will remain in communication with participants and sponsors who may be affected by the changing status of these events and programs.

The best way to keep updated with CAF event cancellations, postponements and other news is to visit our website- www.challengedathletes.org, follow us on Instagram and Facebook and check your email inbox. We have a dedicated update page set up to inform you of event status and other news.

During this difficult time, we remain committed to distribute our upcoming grants to challenged athletes around the world. We know this support is critical to the ongoing health and wellness of those we serve and we will be making our grant distribution announcement at the end of March, as planned.

Our CAF team will be available to our community for questions and information, and we will continue to serve our mission to the best of our ability.

As this situation evolves we know the commitment we have to each other is our greatest strength.

Thank you,

Virginia Tinley
Chief Executive Director
